THE DESTROYER OF FREEDOM!

RUSH LIMBUAGH STATESMAN THE PATH TO FREEDOM!

What this program's been all about is attempting to educate, inform people of the pitfalls and the dangers of liberalism, progressivism, socialism, the left, or what have you. And we knew enough about Obama weeks before he was inaugurated and know exactly what was going to happen with his administration because he had told us. For example, he told us he was going to shut down the coal industry by making it impossibly expensive to stay in it. He told us that he was going to slither his way to single payer health care. He told us that he was going to do what he could to transform the very identity and makeup of this country, and I said, "Why isn't there any not just outrage, why aren't people frightened by this?" I was. I was scared to death of what President Obama intended to do, and it wasn't just because I know who liberals are and what they're gonna do; he had said so, in numerous interviews going all the way back to the early 2000s, not to mention the things he had said in the campaign. Not to mention the Jeremiah Wrights and the Bill Ayers and the people that were his friends. We're worried about Armageddon, when we're living the apocalypse right now with Obama and Hillary, who don't know anything, either!

CARSON HEALS THE NATION

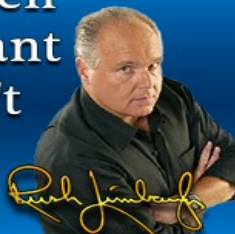

Ben Carson, M.D., works medical miracles. Today, he's one of the most celebrated neurosurgeons in the world. In Gifted Hands, he tells of his inspiring odyssey from his childhood in inner-city Detroit to his position as director of pediatric neurosurgery at Johns Hopkins Hospital at age 33. Ben Carson is a role model for anyone who attempts the seemingly impossible as he takes you into the operating room where he has saved countless lives. Filled with fascinating case histories, this is the dramatic and intimate story of Ben Carson's struggle to beat the odds -- and of the faith and genius that make him one of the greatest life-givers of the century.

JEREMIAH RIGHT PROPHET ANOINTED BY GOD/YAH

It was all there, every bit of it was foretold. So, to me, it was only natural to say, "I hope he fails." So, likewise, I have been amazed throughout these entire seven and a half years that there's been all kinds of outrage that members of the Republican Party express for other Republicans or conservatives, but I haven't heard anything in any kind of proportion whatsoever aimed at Obama. And now Hillary. Even during the IRS scandal, even during Obamacare, from the establishment. Sure, there was a conservative media that was all over this stuff, but from the standpoint of anybody else, where was the outrage? And this outrage at Trump, to me, has always been out of proportion. This fear, this shouting of the dangers Trump represents. What the hell do you think we're living through is? Anyway, that's the point of Victor Davis Hanson's long piece here at National Review. We're worried about Armageddon on the Trump horizon while we're living amid the apocalypse of Obama and Clinton. It's a brilliant piece. And you know why you'll say it's brilliant? It's because it's so obvious. It's once again somebody cutting through all the noise and getting to the meat and potatoes of what's happened.

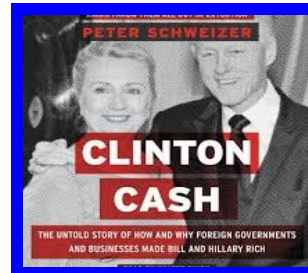

"The Third Reich has been reborn. It's called militant Islam, and, if you haven't noticed, it is overtaking Europe."

TRUMP'S CABINET IN WAITING

RUSH: I have to tell you something. We have come up with our next great premium giveaway for new subscribers to Rush 24/7 or the Limbaugh Letter, and we're doing so in combo. We've got the "Never Hillary" bumper sticker that we finally got into production, and it's now live at RushLimbaugh.com. All the offers have been updated to include this now. You get the "Never Hillary" bumper sticker free with a year's subscription to Rush 24/7, or Rush 24/7 and the Limbaugh Letter. And Father's Day's right around the corner.

WHY? EMP WARFARE ON US!

The destruction would be unimaginable. Hundreds of thousands would die in the first few minutes because of all the commercial airliners that would crash. Within an hour, all the people on life support in hospitals would die (the hospitals' backup generators would be useless). The next wave of deaths would happen less than a week later when people start killing each other over whatever food is left. What's sad is that the country could prepare for this potential end-of-the-world scenario, but Congress will never spend the money required. It's possible to shield electronics from an EMP by gold-plating all the essential components. The military could EMP proof enough trucks, trains and planes to transport food and maintain order throughout the country, but the cost would be in the hundreds of billions. And why spend hundreds of billions on a disaster that might never happen when the TSA needs new scanners?

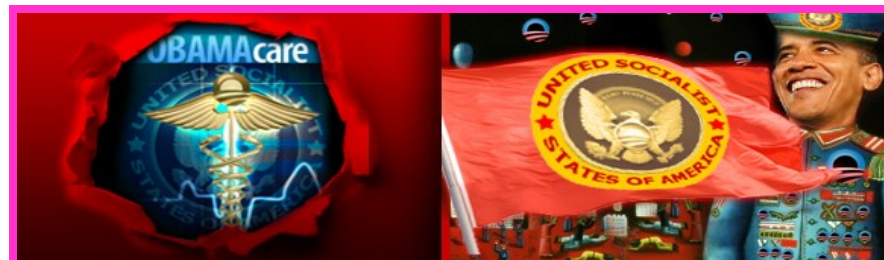

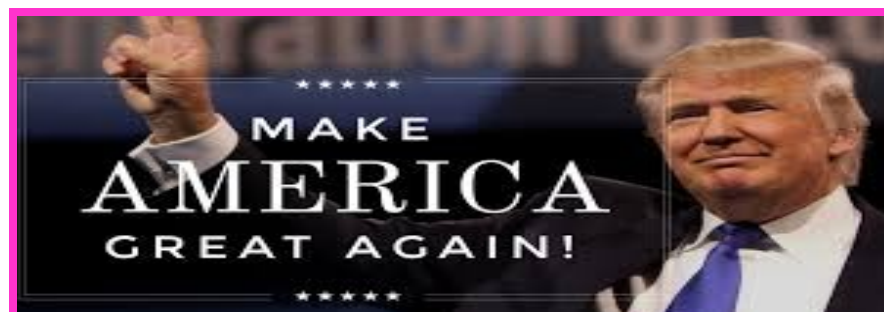

All Our Fears Are Coming True!

Why Can't Obama Put American's Safety First?

UNITED NATIONS INVADE USA

Peacekeeping by the United Nations is a role held by the Department of Peacekeeping Operations as "a unique and dynamic instrument developed by the Organization as a way to help countries torn by conflict to create the conditions for lasting peace."^[1] It is distinguished from both peace building, peace making, and peace enforcement. Peacekeepers monitor and observe peace processes in post-conflict areas and assist ex-combatants in implementing the peace agreements they may have signed. Such assistance comes in many forms, including confidence-building measures, power-sharing arrangements, electoral support, strengthening the rule of law, and economic and social development. Accordingly, UN peacekeepers (often referred to as Blue Berets or Blue Helmets because of their light blue berets or helmets) can include soldiers, police officers, and civilian personnel. The United Nations Charter gives the United Nations Security Council the power and responsibility to take collective action to maintain international peace and security. For this reason, the international community usually looks to the Security Council to authorize peacekeeping operations through Chapter VI authorizations.

TRUMP FIGHTING THE REGIME

RUSH: It goes right to the heart of Hillary's phony feminism. It touches on the Clintons' wacko marriage. It puts both of them on the defense. It's funny. It's clever. It uses the nickname that Trump created and captures this "Energizer" stuff. But, more importantly, it didn't take a team of consultants. It didn't take any focus groups. It didn't take any polling. It took no test runs, trial runs. It didn't cost a lot of money. It's just one guy tweeting out what he thought on the spot -- trolling. Trump trolling.

It is only a matter of time before a massive EMP burst fries the U.S. electrical grid. When that happens, how are you going to survive? In the United States today, we are completely and totally dependent on electrical power. Unless you are Amish (or are a part of a similar community), you probably have absolutely no idea how to survive in a world without electricity.

ILLEGAL IMMIGRATION

I WILL BUILD A GREAT WALL!

RUSH: How many of you saw Homeland Sunday night, the season premiere? The season premiere of Homeland, in one short video exchange, put the War on Terror against militant Islam in the best perspective it has ever been stated.

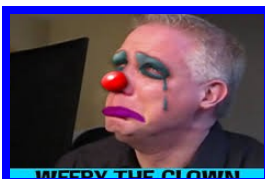

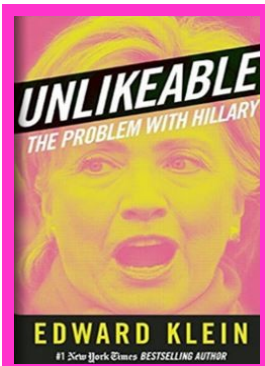

The character Peter Quinn did it. He was brought in after having returned from undercover work in Syria, and all of these CIA executives are here to pick his brain and to tell him how he's wrong and find holes in his story. And he's totally exasperated. They want to send in a couple Special Forces teams to quiet this down or quiet that down, and he basically says to them, "You know, you haven't been over there, and I have. These people, since the seventh century, have been focused on one thing. They read one thing. It's all they read. They don't read anything else. They don't talk about anything else. They're not interested in anything else. And that's all they're committed to." And of course he's talking about the Koran. And they are committed to wiping out everybody who disagrees with them because they're infidels. And he says, "If you people in this room think that you're gonna be able to send a couple of Special Forces teams here or there or drop a bomb here or there or do whatever to fight this, then I'm outta here, because you haven't the slightest idea what we're up against." I'm paraphrasing it, but I'm telling you it was the most powerful -- and kudos to the scriptwriters of the show. It's a Howard Gordon show. He was part of the 24 team. Howard Gordon

MAKE AMERICA
GREAT AGAIN

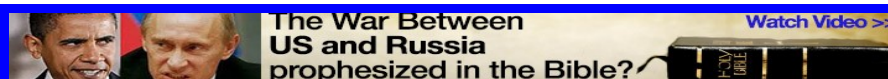

CHAOS IS ALL US STREETS!

An EMP (Electromagnetic Pulse) is a short burst of magnetic energy that disables all non-protected electronic devices within an affected area. A massive solar flare (an eruption of high-energy radiation from the sun) could create an EMP that would disable electronic devices throughout the United States, causing widespread economic collapse in weeks. Your family's survival will depend on your preparedness. An EMP collapse that affects the entire country will cause nationwide panic within days. Most people will be totally unprepared to survive for more than a week or two. Mobs prone to violence will take all available food, water and supplies from store and warehouse shelves. Your family's key to survival will be the ability to shelter in place in a well-supplied and protected home. What would you do if an EMP attack happened in the middle of the winter and you suddenly were not able to heat your home any longer? What would you do if all the electronics in your car got fried and you simply could not drive anywhere? A single EMP attack would be the worst disaster that the United States has ever seen by far.

THEN THE US DOLLAR DIES!

Unfortunately, our electrical grid is extremely vulnerable at this point. As you will see below, intelligence officials believe that China and Russia already have "super-EMP weapons," and a whole host of smaller nations and terrorist groups are believed to be working on developing similar weapons. But even if the U.S. is never attacked by an EMP weapon, scientists tell us that it is inevitable that a massive solar storm will fry our electrical grid someday. If an event similar to the solar storm of 1859 happened today, it would be absolutely catastrophic. Known as "the Carrington Event," that massive solar storm fried telegraph machines all over Europe and North America. At some point we will experience another such solar storm, and some scientists believe that we are already 50 years overdue for another one. In fact, the earth had a "near miss" just last year (in 2013). So what will happen if we are hit by a massive EMP blast? Well, according to a government commission that investigated this issue, approximately two-thirds of the U.S. population could potentially die from starvation, disease and societal chaos within one year. It would be a disaster unlike anything that we have ever seen before in U.S. history.

OUR HOMELAND PREMIERE!

I think this is season 5 of Homeland, if I'm not mistaken. It's set in Berlin this year, and it looks like it's gonna be another barn burner of a season. But his particular segment -- and Cookie, it's in the first 20 minutes, if you can get hold of the episode. I should have told her. It's just something in the Kasich story reminded me of this, and otherwise I would have mentioned it to her earlier. If we don't get to it today, we certainly will get to it next week, 'cause you've got to hear it. In fact, this is exactly what somebody serious in our government ought to be saying and ought to be, if not saying, thinking, 'cause it's just dead on, what we're up against.

It explains or expresses, anyway, the utter futility with the way we're going about dealing with it and stopping it. And his point, you can't appease these people, you can't be nice. They're not interested in any of that. The only read one thing. They don't read what you're saying about them. They don't read what you think about them. They don't care. They read one thing, and that's all they read, and that's all they have read since the seventh century. Makes the point that they are committed to this like you don't know commitment, making the point that we are not committed in any way, shape, manner, or form to stopping them.

Hillary's Plan: Sue Gun Manufacturers

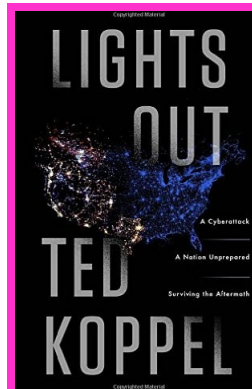

RUSH: Did you see where Hillary Clinton wants victims of gun violence to be able to sue gun manufacturers now? She is promising that if she's elected president she's going to use executive orders to get rid of guns or do something. She's going to use executive orders to manifest some kind of sweeping gun control legislation.

Now, following the logic of allowing the victims of gun violence to sue the gun manufacturer, should Babe Ruth have been allowed to sue Hillerich & Bradsby every time he struck out? They're gonna regret that analogy. I guarantee you.

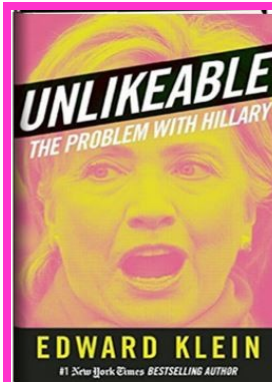

Or, try this. Does that mean that the families of the Benghazi victims will be allowed to sue Hillary? I mean, if we're gonna go out and try to find and be able to sue the people responsible for making victims victims, and in this case Hillary thinks it's the gun, well, then, could the Benghazi victims be allowed to sue Hillary and sue Obama?

Benghazi families have a lot more of a case than the gun manufacturers do. In fact, why didn't Hillary and Obama just blame Benghazi on the gun? I mean, we have four dead Americans. We had terrorists using weapons and guns. Why didn't they blame the guns there? Look, I know it sounds facetious, but I'm being half serious here. If guns kill people, why not blame guns for what happened in Benghazi? Instead they blamed the stupid video that nobody ever saw. You know, when it comes to this kind of thing, look what they do. They blame a video. For what? Creating anger and behavioral problems in a mass number of people who then go out and get guns and start shooting people. Isn't it amazing that when the same set of circumstances here, like take the shooter in Oregon, what did he watch?

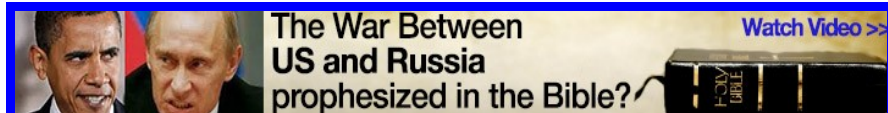

THEN AMERICA SHUTS DOWN!

Commercial jets will fall from the sky across North America. Nuclear power plants will go off-line. Hospitals will become death traps. Battles over food will be fought in the streets. And that's just day one. Welcome to the EMP nightmare. Considered an unlikely event by most people in years past, the more it has been discussed in both the private sector and the Pentagon, the more likely it has become that we will one day be attacked by an EMP, seems to be what the data on the EMP threat is saying. The U.S. government has even created a commission to address the threat, EMPCommission.org. As a result of just one EMP attack on the U.S., in an instant the nation's power grid will fail as anything with circuits (including most automobiles built since the early 1960s when computerized components became more standard in automobiles) will cease to work. Trains, buses, subway systems and commercial airlines and other modern planes will cease to work also -- even the 4,000 or so commercial flights (think Delta, U.S. Airways, Southwest Airlines, and many others) that are in the sky over America at any given time. Our electricity driven society, built on a complex web of intersecting wires and computer circuits, will suddenly come to a standstill. All Hell will probably break loose shortly after.

FIRST THE EMP'S GO OFF!

A special report that provides details for, "The First 15 Things You Must Do Immediately After an EMP." As a mom, and knowing the fears that moms have for their kids, I've included information for when and how to retrieve your kids from school. I've listed items that should be in everyone's Get Home Bag, tips for informing neighbors about what has happened and why this is a vital thing to do, and specific places to shop for last minute supplies, even if you're already well-stocked. Survivors of a worst case scenario will need to think on their feet, quickly adapt and improvise, and be willing to connect with others to form communities. Moderate preppers who continue to refine their skills and supplies, connect with like-minded people, and stay up to date with the world around them are excellent candidates for EMP survival.

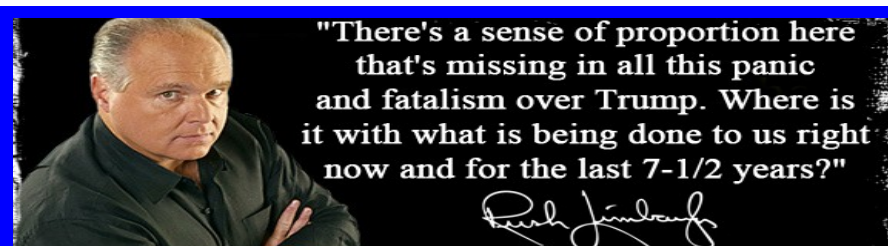

THIS COMMY LIAR NEEDS TO GO JAIL!

SHE IS GUILTY GIVING ALL THE TERRORIST IN THE MIDDLE EAST GUNS! BUT SHE STILL WANTS TO TAKE AWAY YOUR GUNS!

What did he see? And where did he watch it and see it that made him want to go get his guns and start shooting people? If it works for Benghazi, in other words, a video, then why doesn't it work in Oregon? Why doesn't it work in North Carolina with Dylann Roof? Why doesn't it work anywhere else? Only in America is it the guns program. It's never the gun's problem in the Middle East. Well, the gun is never at fault. The left always can find a way to blame people when they want to. When they don't want to blame people, they'll blame the gun, but they're never consistent with this. Why are we bombing ISIS? Why don't we just bomb their weapons? I thought if the weapon is the problem, if the guns -- I don't care what kind of guns, if it's the missiles, I don't care what kind of missiles, if it's bombs, I don't care what kind of bombs, if it's the inanimate object, then why don't we start attacking the bombs and the guns, and why don't we start suing the people that manufacture the weapons that ISIS is using?

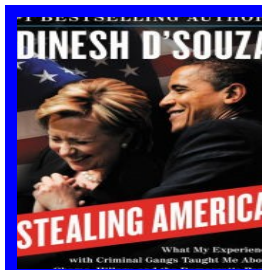

EVANGELIZE THE BLACKS!

Blacks mostly voted Republican from after the Civil War and through the early part of the 20th century. That's not surprising when one considers that Abraham Lincoln was the first Republican president, and the white, segregationist politicians who governed Southern states in those days were Democrats. The Democratic Party didn't welcome blacks then, and it wasn't until 1924 that blacks were even permitted to attend Democratic conventions in any official capacity. Most blacks lived in the South, where they were mostly prevented from voting at all. The election of Roosevelt in 1932 marked the beginning of a change.

He got 71 percent of the black vote for president in 1936 and did nearly that well in the next two elections, according to historical figures kept by the Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies. But even then, the number of blacks identifying themselves as Republicans was about the same as the number who thought of themselves as Democrats. It wasn't until Harry Truman garnered 77 percent of the black vote in 1948 that a majority of blacks reported that they thought of themselves as Democrats. Earlier that year Truman had issued an order desegregating the armed services and an executive order setting up regulations against racial bias in federal employment.

MAHDI COUP HAS HAPPENED!

The Democratic Party is an organized crime syndicate bent on stealing America out from under its citizens. So purports noted documentary filmmaker and conservative author Dinesh D'Souza (America: Imagine a World Without Her) in his new book, written during his eight-month confinement in a halfway house as a result of his conviction for illegal campaign donations. The author's interactions with the gang members also at the confinement center led to his rethinking of the American political system, especially the "con" of progressives to convince average Americans that capitalism harms rather than helps them. D'Souza eviscerates the progressive movement for strong-arm tactics, starting with the Clinton-appointed judge who sentenced him to confinement—according to D'Souza, for his politics rather than his crime—and continuing on to community organizer Saul Alinsky and President Obama and Hillary Clinton, comparing them to characters out of Goodfellas and The Godfather. D'Souza enlivens the familiar material of political screeds with the colorful language of the criminals he came to know, adding to it his own insights as a seasoned political writer.
